Looking at the News with Col. Hugh Clark

IN one of his books John Buchan has a character who predicts that the next war will be more deadly to civilians than to soldiers. Conscription will not be needed, says he, because the front will be the safest place of all. Just the same, we fancy that a lot of dare-devils will choose to stay at home and that there will be others safe at the front pestering headquarters for leave.

The United States has still some influence in Europe. It can have Sam Insull arrested over there at any time. J. P. Morgan denies that he subsidized the Nazis in Germany. They were not on the preferred list.

Civilization will not crash, says Einstein. Glad to hear it, for it must be owned that the world left nothing undone to make it crash, even when spending millions of lives and billions of dollars to save it. We accept Mr. Einstein's word for it, because we could never understand his explanations and arguments, anyway.

In an income tax action tried in New York against Charles E. Mitchell, the curious judgment was handed down that a man is not guilty of an illegal act if his lawyer in good faith advised him it was legal. Such a decision cannot be accepted as a precedent unless it is coupled with another viz. that action lies against the lawyer who gave the unsound advice. The State must find some one who can be held responsible for an illegal act and the lawyer who advises that illegal act is a fit and proper person to prosecute if his client is not so.

One of the leaders of the Canadian Commonwealth Federation expresses confidence that they will be at least strong enough in the next parliament to compel adoption of their program.

With no responsibilities, They'll have a power that's great They'll be the back-seat drivers In the chariot of State.

Grey of Faldoen has often been charged with having failed to prevent the world war. His critics alleged that Germany would not have attacked France if Grey had made known at an earlier date that Britain would in that event declare war. In a government that contained John Morley and John Burns, Grey could not have done other than he did. An earlier announcement might have postponed but could not prevent the war. That new navy, those huge armaments and that superb army were not built up for nothing. As we have noted before when a man buys a threshing outfit he means to thrash, otherwise his investment is a loss.

A railway trainman, denouncing the practice of throwing rice and confetti at newly-weds, says that on such occasions the bride and bridegroom are the only ones who are not acting silly. How does he know? Only time can tell.

An automobile collision stunt advertised for the Canadian National Exposition was called off. Some said it was a very dangerous affair while others said there was no chance of anybody's being killed but for which of these two reasons it was cancelled we could not well make out.

CROWDING FROCES SCHOOL BOARD TO OPEN EXTRA ROOM

Estimates Show Taxpayer Will Pay No More With Extra Room

At the special meeting of the Vulcan school board held on Monday evening at the municipal office, all trustees were present. The meeting was a continuation of the session of Monday of last week and took an extra teacher and increasing the accommodation.

The round table talk and figures given by the secretary showed that the board were well within the year's estimates and at the present rate of expenditure a balance would be shown at the end of the year.

With the expenditure of installing another room and with the students fees it was brought out that it was not a question of extra cost and that the extra room could be added without more expenditure to increase the taxpayers' burden.

All members of the board were convinced of the overcrowding of the high school rooms after each had visited the school during school hours. The congestion of pupils hampered the teachers and was not fair to the pupils, Principal Irvine stated.

After figures on the estimate of the extra teacher and room were checked and re-checked and the figures showed that there would be no increase in taxes, Trustee Discher gave the following motion: "That the school board make arrangements to secure another High School assistant teacher and open another public school room vacated by the public school for the High School class, provided that expenditures were kept within the estimates."

Before vote was taken on the motion all angles of the question were again discussed. When Chairman McAskill asked for question all members gave their consent and the motion passed.

A suitable building and the procuring of the assistant teacher were left to the different committees, who will see that the necessary arrangements are made with the quickest dispatch possible.

A bridal shower was recently given at the home of Mrs. A. J. Clayton in the Red Cross district in honor of Mrs. Brownlee, nee Pearl Fulton. All school chums were present and a jolly evening was spent at cards and dancing. Miss Sadie McCartney made presentation to Miss Stack on behalf of the gathering of a beautiful pen and pencil set. Luncheon was served by the hostesses. The party broke up after midnight with best wishes for the guest of honor on her departure for Calgary.

School Fair, Reid Hill, Fri. Sept. 29

Although no government grants are being given this year in aid of the school fairs, the committee in charge of the Reid Hill school fair recently made arrangements and the event will be held in the Reid Hill community hall on September 29th. Four schools, Sunny Glen, Yale, Harmony and Reid Hill, will have entries and keen competition among the pupils will be a feature, as in former years. Excellent donations have been made by business firms, locally and from Calgary, and this, with a bank balance of good proportions, led the committee to their decision of carrying on the fair despite the lacking government grant. Last minute news on the event will be given in the next issue, as well as a list of the donors.

"COMMON COLD" HEALTH TALK AT W. I. MEETING

Good Deeds W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Morley, Vulcan, Thursday afternoon, Sept. 14. Owing to the busy harvest season the attendance was very small. However, the few who were able to be present enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon. A few bills were presented for payment. Our branch is in good financial circumstances and able to meet all obligations till the busy season is over.

Beginning in October, a home economic course will be studied through Mrs. MacGregor-Smith of Edmonton. A bat and ball were presented to Twin Coulee and Richmond Hill schools tying for first prize in the window box contest. It is hoped that all schools represented in the W. I. will compete next year. The roll call was responded to with miscellaneous recipes selected by the president, Mrs. J. H. Lucas.

A splendid talk on the "common cold" by Miss Jones, public health nurse of the High River-Oktoks Health Unit was the main feature of the program. Miss Jones outlined the causes, effects and remedy and also stressed the importance of proper clothing and care in the prevention of colds. Miss Jones was given a hearty vote of thanks.

Douglas Group Active Meeting

Discuss Theory of Just Price and How Bank Deposits Are Created

An enthusiastic and large group attended the meeting of the Douglas Group held at the Scouts' hall on Thursday evening, September 14th.

A paper was read by Mrs. R. Todd touching on the various points in the Douglas System, and showing how, under the existing financial system, one debt could only be paid by incurring a larger debt by someone, some where.

Later in the evening, president Whicher illustrated on the blackboard the theory of Just Price. He showed how it would actually work in practice and was scientifically based on the ratio consumption bears to production. There was considerable discussion as to how bank deposits were created, some present were unwilling to agree on the point that banks, by making loans and by the purchase of securities create deposits. This fact, however, it was brought out, is so generally admitted now, even by bank presidents. Hon. R. McKenna, the speaker stated, admitted the fact and it was definitely proven by the McMillan report of 1930. In concluding Mr. Whicher said there could be no question about the fact.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Sept. 28th. All are invited to take part in the discussion, regardless of personal opinion on the subject.

Harold Elves Tells of Northern Rhodesia

Even the natives in faroff Northern Rhodesia are worrying about their taxes. So says Harold Elves, son of Mr. John Elves, of Cayley, who is home on holiday, after spending the past three years on the mineralogical staff of the British South African Co. operating in Northern Rhodesia. This part of Rhodesia is still a Crown colony and the British government authorizes the taxation which amounts to about $3 a year per native. This tax is supposed to be spent on the stations in the colony for services of doctor, magistrate, etc. Those who cannot pay cash, pay in meal or roadwork, and since employment fluctuates as in other lands, it is hard to collect cash. Three dollars does not seem a stupendous sum, but when native wages run from $1.00 to $5.00 a month, plus board, taxes take a big slice even from the "high" salaries. A native with one wife pays $3.00 but if romance overcomes him and he doubles his marital afflictions he pays $6.00. And further adventures in matrimony increase his tax burden.

But though the taxes are regarded as too heavy, the north Rhodesian, like folks more intellectually advanced, does not make active protest. There are no uprisings or revolts, and British justice is dealt out with calm impartiality and very capably. It is possible that the natives respect the British rule, because they have the advantage of contrasting their condition, with that of their neighbors in Belgian Congo, which adjoins north North Rhodesia.

While not prepared to express any opinion regarding conditions in the Belgian Congo, Mr. Elves said that in Elizabethville, the capital of Katanga (in the Congo), natives may be seen Harris and Company Ltd., of which the writer is managing director. Exporters importers and manufacturers' agents are the lines of business done by the firm.

The local Brownie Group held their first business venture in the form of tea, served in the Anglican church hall on Saturday. It was a big success and $10.20 was gained for the promotion of the group. All members wish to thank patrons and others who helped attain the success that was appreciated. REWARD OF LABOR

There is at present investigation in relief camp operation in Alberta. One contention is that $5.00 a month is insufficient pay for work that is well done and necessary. The employers' ability to pay usually sets the standard of wages, and the financial worries of the Canadian government seem to prohibit any fair wage scale for the public works carried on under the guise of relief.

It would seem that the ranking feature of relief works as operating in Canada is not primarily the remuneration, but rather the attitude of the promoters and public to the nature of the work. If a man puts in an honest conscientious day's work, cleaning out growth in public parks, or building a new road for countless thousands to enjoy, why should he not receive due credit for contributing to the beauty of the country. Why is his work not as valuable ultimately, as that of a thousand and one other government employees? Why is he not simply "on government work?" It is the stigmatizing of these workmen as objects of charity, the belittling of their service, and the constant emphasis of "relief" that is degrading to them, and no doubt a very lively source of resentment. Without costing a dollar more in actual money, the whole morale of relief camps might be altered if the general public and the governments would cease to regard them, as only one step removed from jail birds. In fact, criminals are fed and housed and cared for with far less hullabaloo than are these unfortunate citizens, who are victims of circumstances and in many instances as capable intelligent individuals, as the rest of us.

In this matter of relief work, the United States scheme appears to have its merits. In the various national parks of the States, young men may be found, part of the huge re-forestation scheme. These boys get $30 a month, $25 of which is returned to those dependent on them. But they actually get a dollar a day and board, which gives them a self-respecting feeling—and at the same time makes provision for their needy parents. Selection of youth in this huge corps has been made carefully. They come from needy families in every district over the States but they are chosen on a basis of physical condition. Only those of first class physique are accepted, which is in a sense an aristocracy of health, an army to which any boy is proud to belong.

There are those who say the scheme serves a double purpose. It keeps the young men physically and mentally alert, through work, discipline and instruction. And besides that, it is providing United States with a first class peace time army, which could fall into line at a moment's notice.

Whatever ulterior motive might possibly lie behind the scheme, it is apparently being conducted along more self respecting lines than the methods used in Canada.

Wages are not everything. The maintenance of self-respect, and the recognition of work well done is more important. The attitude of the public to those who are carrying on important public works is wrong, and altogether demoralizing.

TO OURSELVES

During the past week two former residents of Alberta, have commented on what is known as the Alberta spirit. They left this country three years ago, and association with the world in far-off parts has given them a good basis of comparison.

When they went away to foreign parts, we were tottering on the brink of ruin. Three years later they return to find us still tottering cheerfully, but not yet over the edge of the abyss. Although unable to drag ourselves to safety, we have become experts in hanging on. And we do so with a certain debonair air.

It is the generally happy spirit that has impressed the two visitors. They spoke of the stamina and quality of our people which enable them to do their best, and take things with a smile. Almost all human beings can struggle grimly for existence, but too often the grimness of the struggle leaves its indelible mark, and the victims become morose, hard, and without the capacity for laughter.

However, we still retain that vital spark, which seeks happiness and gaiety as the flower seeks the sun. We have never yet admitted we were beaten. Instead of concentrating on the bleak outlook, we have busied ourselves with the little day by day happenings. And we have taken time to laugh. It has kept us sane.

As an instance, take the disastrous frost of July. Instead of wringing their hands in despair, farmers looked things over and said "What use can be made of this? What do we do next?" Some even made jokes about it which was a reaction so surprising to visitors of that time that they have not yet got over it.

At any rate there is a resilience about Alberta people that is going to carry them through. In this respect they may be merely counterparts of our own particular brand of nature. The sudden and unexpected "come back" of growth is reflected in our spirits. The almost incredible response of pastures and fields to the few recent rains, is repeated in the quick response of our natures to any change for the better. All in all, we may merely be the products of our bracing, breezy temperamental mother Alberta. But apparently she has given us a character that commands respect.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

When the London Conference was on, there was a discussion between O. V. Ozersky, delegate from Russia, and Hon. E. N. Rhodes. Mr. Rhodes charged that Russian timber offered unfair competition to Canadian industry.

Mr. Ozersky said that the Soviet, unlike Canada, was not carrying the insupportable burden of excessive directors' fees, and of watered stocks, or other unproductive expenditure.

The truth of the Russian commentary, is borne out in an article in the Financial Post, which describes the process of watering stocks in industrial concerns. When these concerns become overcapitalized as they have in recent years, no wonder industrialists call for higher and ever higher tariffs to make their projects pay.

The Post gives several instances of overcapitalization, one of which will suffice:

"In 1924 the outstanding shares of a company engaged in the manufacture of so staple a commodity as bread consisted of 12,500 7 per cent. preferred shares, and 25,000 $100 par value common shares, making a total capitalization of $3,750,000. At a meeting of the shareholders held in 1925, by-laws were passed approving of the conversion of the 25,000 common shares into an equal number of second preferred shares and at the same time creating 25,000 shares of no par value common to be distributed, share for share, to the holders of the ten second preferred as a 100 per cent. stock dividend. These no par value shares for which not a dollar was contributed to the assets of the company commanded prices during the next four years as follows: 1925, $63; 1926, $96; 1927, $171; and in 1928, $170. At another meeting of the shareholders held in 1929 a resolution was passed authorizing the splitting of the no par value shares eight to one, and before the end of 1929 these new shares commanded a price of $28 per share, or the equivalent of $232 for the former shares. Thus we see that in 1927 the public placed a valuation of $4,750,000 (25,000 x 171) on shares for which nothing had been contributed to the funds of the company. This valuation was further increased in 1929 to $5,800,000 (200,000 x 28).

"This device served as a basis of distributing the excess earnings of the company which in 1928 exceeded the dividend requirements of the first and second preferred by $393,387 ($665,887—$252,500) or $15.74 per share of common.

"Thus, we see that in this particular year the consumers of bread paid a price which earned for the shareholders of the company $15.74 on 25,000 shares for which not a dollar of new money had been paid into the company's treasury."

In this field of "Big Business" lies the reason for many of Canada's troubles.

MORE GOSSIP

Newspapers over the province have been passing on a recent report from an unknown source, that seems entirely too far-fetched for credence. This story predicts a general shake-up at Edmonton, with Premier Brownlee resigning and being replaced by Hon. George Hoadley.

Not content with this, the report goes further and maps out a policy for Mr. Hoadley along very strange lines. It asserts that Mr. Hoadley, having in mind his old Conservative allegiance, would call into cabinet office, D.M. Duggan, Conservative Leader, Hugh Farthing, his colleague, J. McLellan of Taber, Fred White of Calgary, F. C. Moyer of Drumheller, Hugh Allen of Grande Prairie and W. G. Farquharson of Provost.

An extraordinary forecast, so extraordinary, that it would be interesting to learn its source.

When Mr. Brownlee turned down the Tariff Commission appointment, he reasserted his intention to remain with the Province indefinitely, or, if one recalls his words correctly, "As long as he was needed." He is still needed, quite as seriously as he was a year ago or two years ago.

Again, if he is to have a successor will it be Mr. Hoadley. Our own representative manages his departments admirably and is a veteran in the Legislative field. He is thoroughly familiar with the needs of the province in many respects, and has substituted for Mr. Brownlee acceptably on numerous occasions. But it is far from certain that he has any desire to assume the manifold burdens of the Premiership. Three or four years ago, he was freely discussed as a very likely prospect. More recently however, it is said that he has declined to consider any such possibility, and is absorbed heart and soul in his present office.

But assuming that he would accept the Premiership, what reason is there for supposing that he would ditch the present administration and surround himself with men totally inexperienced in Cabinet duties, estimable men though they may be.

Mr. Hoadley was elected as a U.F.A. representative, and his allegiance to that party has never been questioned. He is entirely loyal to the United Farmers and their interests. Added to which he is much too wise a politician to consider such a sell out as the report suggests. Conceivably, if you can, the roar that would go up from the United Farmers of Alberta. They, after all, are the government and for the most part are satisfied with the present administration and Cabinet.

AGREES WITH COOTE

Lord Rothermere, holidaying in Canada, comes to bat with a suggestion that Canada should follow the monetary course of Australia and New Zealand, and reduce the value of its dollar to 25 per cent. off sterling.

The antipodean Dominions did this nearly a year ago! Wheat growers there received 60 to 70 cents a bushel for their wheat when our growers were receiving 25 to 35 cents. Australia and New Zealand sold all their wheat. They have not even a safe carry-over left.

Canada stayed with "sound money" and wound up the year with 220,000,000 bushels carry-over.

The Herald advocated a year ago that Canada follow the example of Australia and New Zealand. So did many other daily newspapers in this country.

We might have had $75,000,000, even $100,000,000 more for the Western crop last year without charging our customers one cent more in their money. We might have had Canada moving along the road to prosperity. We might have moved another fifty or one hundred million bushels of the wheat now cluttering up our terminal elevators as the new crop begins to come on the market.

But no! Canada's Big Interest policy has nothing for the great mass of the people. It is dictated by those who have more money than they need but want more.—Lethbridge Herald.

THESE KIND WORDS

An article in "The Quill" says some nice things about that section of the press to which we belong:

The "Home Weekly," commonly known as the small-town press, is assuming a prestige never before attained. In marked contrast to the cowardly and knavish attitude which marks the editorial policy of a great majority of the metropolitan newspapers, the weekly press stands forth in bold relief.

The "Home Weekly" is keeping its news columns clean; its editorial columns are speaking with increasing authority on questions of public policy and morals; it has freed itself of partisan political influences; it appeals to the reason and logic of the most discriminating reading clientele served by any journal—the small city and village dweller and the farm owner. It carries the home news to the home folk, therefore it fears no competition from the radio, the billboard, the screen or any other medium of advertising or publicity. It offers to the local advertiser the best if not the only medium of coverage.

The weekly press is personal, responsible, responsive, and independent. It never before has enjoyed so wide a circulation or so generous support from readers and advertisers alike as at present. It will continue to expand both in influence and in financial returns.

And may that final prophecy be realized!—Kamloops Sentinel.

KIRKCALDY W. I. INTERESTING MEET

The Kirkcaldy Women's Institute was entertained at the home of the president, Mrs. R. A. Clements on Sept. 14th. There were thirty-two present; all but seven were visitors and members of other branches. The meeting opened in the usual order; singing, reading of the minutes and repeating the creed.

Plans were made for a supper to be held in the Kirkcaldy hall on the evening of October 20th. A program will be held at the close of the supper in the form of a play enacted by the women of the Kirkcaldy W.I.

After the business and correspondence, another song was sung, followed by a talk from Mr. Cooper of Champion. The Institute had been looking forward to this lecture with anticipation for some time. Mr. Cooper's talk was on school acts. He brought out some interesting facts which all present were glad to learn. At the close of the lecture, Mr. Cooper was given a very hearty vote of thanks.

The meeting then enjoyed a reading by Miss Marjorie Lawrence called "Mother Never Strikes." This was followed by a piano solo by Miss Pearl Zang, both were well rendered and appreciated by all.

The gathering was honored by the presence of our provincial convener, Mrs. D. H. Galbraith; past director, Mrs. Alcock; constituency convener, Mrs. J. Hagerman. Each one favoring us with a short talk.

At the close, while lunch was being prepared, Mrs. Clements gave a contest called "Man-dress him." Scattered through the rooms were slips of paper and written on them were short sentences, each meaning something a man wears. This contest was won by Mrs. Galbraith, the prize being a beautiful cream jug.

Assisting the hostess with lunch, Mrs. Boose poured tea while Mrs. Hagerman cut the ices. The next meeting of the institute will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Hagerman on October 12th, when a full attendance is requested. Final plans will then be made for the "annual" supper.

Remarkable ripening weather in the north is likely to ensure a big crop for Peace River district.

H R PRESBYTERY MEETS AT VULCAN

Three Leading Church Officials to Visit Points in Church District

High River Presbytery of the United Church met in Vulcan on Thursday. The new chairman is Rev. R. W. Dalgleish, with Rev. C. S. Pinder of Nanton as secretary. Rev. A. H. Rowe, of Granum, was re-elected treasurer.

Rev. P. G. McPherson, successor to Rev. J. N. Brunton, was introduced by Rev. A. H. Rowe at the morning session, his induction taking place in the evening.

Plans were completed for the visit of three officials of the church, namely, Rev. Dr. Robert Laird at Claresholm on October 16, Rev. Dr. Frank Langford at High River on October 17, and Rev. Dr. Edmund Oliver at Vulcan on October 18.

Presbytery expressed appreciation of the progress that is being made in the work of the Canadian Radio Commission.

R. W. Hibbert, secretary for young people's work, stated that of 80 vacation schools held in the Alberta Conference, 10 had been in the High River Presbytery, with two young people camps, at Macleod and Willow Creek.

The Missionary and Maintenance report was given by Geo. E. Mack, the Pensions by Rev. R. E. Finlay, and Home Missions by Rev. A. Rennie.

Gordon Finlay of Carmangay was nominated for a scholarship in second year arts at Mount Royal College, Calgary.

Rev. C.E.A. Pocock, Okotoks, and H. B. Chisholm of Aldersyde were appointed to attend the prohibition gathering in Calgary on October 3.

Induction Service

The public attended the induction service in the evening, Rev. R. W. Dalgleish presided and delivered the charge to the minister. Rev. A. H. Rowe addressed the congregation outlining the meaning of sainthood and the qualities that ought to be found in a modern congregation.

Others taking part in the induction ceremony were Rev. C. S. Pinder, Rev. W. Morrison and Rev. Peter Dawson. The newly-inducted minister addressed the congregation briefly and closed the service. Miss Hartwig sang a solo, "He Leadeth Me." At the close refreshments were served in the Sunday school room.

In addition to the clerical members the following lay representatives were in attendance: C. W. Polf, Carmangay; Ben King and William Knight, Claresholm; James Blair, Granum; G. E. Mack and A. W. Kelly, High River; H. B. Chisholm, Aldersyde; C. E. Spencer, Parkland, and W. E. Schultz, Brant. Rev. Dr. Powell, superintendent of missions, Calgary, was in attendance.

A CANADIAN CITIZEN MEANS?

Canadian Nationality Now Established With Legal Definition

There now is a Canadian nationality, or at least a basic legal definition.

The immigration act defines a Canadian citizen as including three categories: (1) Any person born in Canada who has not subsequently become the citizen of a foreign state; (2) any British subject who has been domiciled for five years in Canada; (3) any subject of a foreign power who has become naturalized and has not subsequently become an alien or lost Canadian domicile.

$100 MILLION FOR FINANCING WHEAT

Stabilizing Effect Expected to Result from Government Backing

The Dominion government is understood to be providing a hundred million dollars, roughly, to deal with the wheat situation.

Particular secrecy surrounds the details this year as before, but guarantees are said in well-informed quarters to be continued in respect to the wheat which is on hand and in an initial way in respect to the new crop to be handled by the Central Selling Agency.

Just what quantity of wheat the government is responsible for has never been stated officially, but there are reports that the amount of guarantees established in a revolving manner is $105,000,000, and that this represents 150,000,000 bushels at 70 cents a bushel.

The guarantees furnished for the 1930 and 1931 crops were heavy, but the pleasing fact is that they caused no loss. Advances were repaid. As to the last crop the liability is largely represented by the unsold stock with no means of ascertaining at just what figure in the changing market conditions they will be disposed of.

It is understood the government has the fullest confidence in John I. McFarland, of Calgary, its representative on the wheat selling agencies, and it will not be surprising if one or two assistants are named to act with Mr. McFarland in that capacity.—Calgary Herald.

NORTHERN RHODESIA

with chains round their necks, tied together and working on roads. There is no doubt that the attitude toward the British on the part of the native, is far different from his feeling toward Belgian domination.

Mineral Development

Northern Rhodesia is relatively a place of new development, in comparison with Southern Rhodesia, which carries the dignity of a British Dominion. The province is roughly about 250,000 square miles in size, and the British South Africa Co., has a 52,000 mile concession. The discovered mineral wealth consists of copper, and two big copper mines are working at present, giving large employment to natives, as well as a considerable staff of British. From an agricultural standpoint the country is far from rich. The capital involved in the plant is very large, with mills, smelter and a refinery in process of construction. The equipment is of the very latest and best, and the newest processes in treatment of ores is always under consideration.

Pre Cambrian Rock

The geological structure is pre-Cambrian similar to that in certain mining areas of Canada. Perhaps this accounts for the fact that quite a number of Canadian geologists are employed on the staff. The consulting geologist of the company is a McGill man, and Canadians have a good standing with the company.

Belgian Radium

The company is also working on gold prospects in their concession.
The fact that the rich radium resources of the Belgian Congo, lie not far from the northern Rhodesia boundary is also tantalizing to the prospector.
Whether the radium field may extend in Rhodesia is not known yet. This immensely rich resource of the Belgians is scrupulously guarded, and no visitors are allowed on the property.

Surveying

Mr. Elves was employed on the field staff of the company in geological survey and in prospecting. The life is lonely and naturally isolated from settlements. Usually two prospectors went out together mostly afoot with a troops of fifty or so native carriers.
These with their domestic appendages made up quite a camp. Sixteen months at a stretch without seeing another white man was one of the experiences of that lonely life. The natives are backward and rather a poor class of blacks, but they are willing and of good disposition. The usual wage out in the fields ran from 60 cts a month up to $1.75, exclusive of keep.
The food rations cost about $1.00 a month, plus the meat from game killed on the way. The ration was meal (maize or corn). Game of all kinds abounds including lions, elephants, leopards, wild pig, eland, zebra, reet buck, buffalo, hippo, etc. The zebra and hippo are considered very good eating. Wild fruit consists of oranges, lemons, bananas, melons, paw paws, and so on, and all kinds of vegetables may be grown in the settlements, with special emphasis on sweet potatoes.
